

2nd Annual Institute for Innovative Education Symposium: Team-based Care

Tuesday, November 18th 8am – 1pm

Call for Nominations

In preparation for our upcoming symposium on the elements of effective team-based care, we would like to identify and highlight effective teams within our UR Medicine healthcare system. If you are a member of a high-functioning team, or admire a team for their communication, coordination and/or collaboration, please submit a nomination so we can feature and learn from them at the symposium. A few teams will be invited to give extended presentations so that we can share strategies that facilitate their success. We are also looking for teams to lead workshops in areas of specific interest and excellence.

Descriptions of team nominations should include:

- Members on the team (roles, disciplines, leadership)
- A description of what they are doing differently as a team in providing care
- Innovative ways of approaching care using team-based models
- Strategies for success
- Measures of their impact/success
- Why they feel team-based care has been effective

Nominations should be no longer than 500 words and include contact information of the nominating individual and a key contact for the team being featured. Nominations should be emailed to Sarah Peyre at sarah_peyre@urmc.rochester.edu no later than September 10.
