Critical Care Nursing Symposium

September 19, 2011

Arthur Kornberg
Medical Research Building
Class of '62 Auditorium

Critical Care Symposium

Purpose:

The Critical Care Nursing Symposium will enable the learner to gather practical and evidence-based knowledge through the educational sessions on the topics below:

Healthy Work Environments

Sedation & Analgesia

Family Presence During Resuscitation

Cardiogenic Shock

Endocrine Emergencies

Rationing Care in the ICU

Crucial Conversations

Target Audience:

The Critical Care Nursing Symposium's intended audience includes nurses who care for critically ill patients in community and teaching hospitals. Nursing students who are interested in critical care after graduation are also targeted.

Contact Hours:

This activity will provide 6.25 contact hours

Learning Objectives:

- Describe strategies to use people, process and technology to enhance outcomes for patients & their caregivers.
- Identify successful approaches for delivering sedation & analgesia in the ICU.
- Discuss the benefits of having family presence during code situations and identify support systems needed.
- Identify options for the management and treatment of cardiogenic shock.
- Discuss endocrine conditions that require emergent interventions and describe how basic care can impact the outcomes.
- Discuss the decision making and ethical aspects of rationing care in critically ill patients.
- Identify opportunities for better communication in the healthcare environment and describe strategies for implementation.

Exhibits:

- Learners will review newest medical technology and pharmaceuticals that may assist the critical care nurse in providing better care and improved outcomes for their patients.
