

Question: Why are both seasonal flu and H1N1 flu serious illness?

Answer: Most of the serious (and sometimes fatal) cases of seasonal flu affects people 65 years and older. Many people exposed to H1N1 will have mild symptoms, however some serious (and sometimes fatal) cases of H1N1 affects younger people, mostly under age 50.