INTEGRATIVE MEDICINE has been designated as a board specialty as of 2014. The field focuses on the whole person, mind-body-spirit, and acknowledges that the relationship between patient and provider in itself can be healing. It is inquiry driven and makes appropriate use of both conventional and alternative methods. Jeffrey K. Harris, MD, embodied these principles and was a pioneer in our community. He leaves his gift of integrative medicine as a legacy and we dedicate this conference to this model of astute, accepting and holistic caring.

The conference intent is to bring practitioners current with prevalent topics in integrative medicine.

CONFERENCE GOALS: Attendees will be able to describe integrative medicine as an upcoming focus of improved health.

OBJECTIVES:

- Explain current integrative approaches to health care
- Assess the complexity of the whole person in an integrative manner
- Discuss ways to incorporate integrative practices
- List evidence based integrative resources
