Crisis Intervention Program

Our program provides short-term and community-based support and assistance. We work with children, teens, and adults with developmental disabilities. The goal is to stabilize behavior.

Our Program
Common behavior problems our team can help with include
- Aggression
- Self-injury
- Running off from caregivers
- Serious property destruction

Our program provides
- Behavioral assessment
- Behavior plan development
- Short-term case management
- Parent, school team, and staff training
- Links to needed services

Cost
There is no fee for our service. Our program is funded by a Family Support Services grant from the New York State Office for Persons with Developmental Disabilities (OPWDD).

What is a Crisis?
For this program, a crisis is when challenging behaviors lead to
- Problems keeping the person safe
- Problems keeping others safe
- Risk of losing home and community supports
- Risk of losing school or daycare placement

Eligibility
Children, teens, and adults who
- Live in Monroe County
- Live with a family member
- Have a developmental disability and OPWDD eligibility
- Have behavior that is causing a crisis situation

Referrals can be made by families, medical or mental health providers, or developmental disability service providers.
