This interactive, example-based group discussion will focus on the ways in which often-well-meaning verbal comments may be heard differently by different members of our workplace, and the cumulative effects such interactions can have on our collective wellness and cohesion as a community.

At the conclusion of this presentation participants should be able to:
1. The participant will have a greater understanding of the ways in which verbal comments can have unintended adverse effects on our colleagues and our workplace community.
2. The participant will be able to describe constructive responses to such situations from the perspectives of a recipient, an unintentional perpetrator, and a bystander.
