

New York State Department of Health Office of Health Emergency Preparedness

Mental Health Response to a Mass Casualty Incident Recorded Session

Background:

In 2005-2006 the New York State Office of Mental Health (OMH) and the New York State Department of Health worked together with the University of Rochester Medical Center to develop a statewide comprehensive disaster mental health training program entitled, Disaster Mental Health (DMH): A Critical Response. In an effort to continue to maintain disaster mental health skills for hospitals additional training continues to be developed by the Institute of Disaster Mental Health at SUNY New Paltz and offered to hospitals.

Target Audience:

Chaplains, social workers, psychologists, psychiatric nurses, psychiatrists and other hospital staff who are DMH responders.

Purpose:

To prepare DMH healthcare responders for the particular challenges and stressors, both personal and professional, involved in responding to Mass Casualty Incidents involving multiple deaths or injuries. Topics will include an overview of mass casualty incidents (event types and characteristics; likely response settings); early interventions for MCIs (Psychological First Aid, crisis intervention, talking with survivors about loss); longer term issues (memorials, anniversary reactions); and the need for self-care.

Recommended Prerequisite:

It is recommended that prior to attending this training staff first complete the DMH: A Critical Response course which will provide the basic fundamentals of disaster mental health. This course may be offered by hospital staff that completed DMH: A Critical Response Train the Trainer course.

Faculty:

James Halpern, Ph.D., Director
