

Psychological First Aid [Live Virtual Course]

Background

Psychological First Aid is an early intervention that can be used to support anyone who is stressed or distressed, including patients, clients, and colleagues. This training will present a toolkit of supportive elements that can be used to help others, regardless of the setting or source of the stress, in order to remove barriers to natural resilience.

Target Audience

Hospital, nursing home, adult care facility, Local Health Department, Emergency Medical Services, and Emergency Management.
