Flu ’22: What you need to know
This fall and winter we are facing a particularly rough flu season. Infectious Disease specialist Angela Branche, MD, shares how this year’s flu vaccine is working so far, and how to properly seek treatment for illness.

Read the interview »

A quiet place: chaplaincy team offers space, healing and comfort to many
In her 20 years here, Director of Chaplaincy Services at Strong Memorial Hospital Rev. Robin Franklin has sat alongside many people through their worst moments. From comforting patients and families to listening to staff who are struggling after tragedy, she and her team support everyone at the Medical Center regardless of their beliefs.

Learn more »

Grant will use virtual reality to study trauma and the brain
Understanding how experience and exposure to trauma changes the brain could improve diagnosis and targeted care for conditions like anxiety and post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD).

Find out how »

Progress in lung and breast cancer and community outreach
Read about the data behind lung cancer cases, early screening, advanced treatments, research, and patient stories in the latest edition of Dialogue magazine, along with advances in breast cancer and community outreach.

Read more »

Make your year-end charitable donation by December 31.
Behind every patient healed, every discovery, and every achievement are donors who make it all possible. Your gift, of any amount to any area of the Medical Center that inspires you, promises an even brighter 2023 for our region.

Make a gift »

Social media highlight