

1st Annual CMSR Symposium

July 15, 2011

Class of '62 Auditorium, Flaum Atrium and Forbes Mezzanine

Morning Session

Class of '62 Auditorium

9:00 am

Welcome and Introduction
Regis J. O'Keefe, MD, PhD

9:15 - 10:00 am

Targeting Joint Lymphatic Function as a Therapy for Rheumatoid Arthritis
Lianping Xing, PhD

10:00 - 10:45 am

RNA-targeted Therapeutics for Muscle Disease
Charles Thornton, MD

10:45 - 11:30 am

Adhesions in Flexor Tendon Injuries – Venturing into “No Man’s Land”
Hani Awad, PhD

Poster Session

Flaum Atrium

11:30 am - 1:30 pm

Poster Judging & Lunch

Afternoon Session

Class of '62 Auditorium

1:30 - 2:15 pm

The Notch Pathway is a Central Regulator of Skeletal Stem Cells
Matthew J. Hilton, PhD

2:15 - 3:00 pm

Teriparatide as a Chondro-regenerative Therapy for Osteoarthritis
Michael Zuscik, PhD

3:00 - 3:15 pm

Break

3:15 - 3:30 pm

Award Presentations

Keynote Presentation

Class of '62 Auditorium

3:30 - 4:30 pm

From Development to Pathology: Hedgehog Signaling in Cartilage Neoplasia and Osteoarthritis
Benjamin Alman, MD

Dr. Benjamin Alman is the Head of Orthopaedic Surgery and a Senior Scientist in the Developmental & Stem Cell Biology program at The Hospital for Sick Children (SickKids). He holds a Canada Research Chair, is the A.J. Latner Professor and Chair of Orthopaedic Surgery at the University of Toronto, and is Vice-Chair of Research in the Department of Surgery.

Reception

Forbes Mezzanine

4:30 - 5:30 pm

Closing Remarks