Know your health
inside and out.
Use MyChart.

With MyChart, you can:

- Communicate with your healthcare team
- View your medications and test results
- Request appointments and prescription refills
- Receive appointment reminders and pre-check into your appointments
- Pay your bill quickly and securely
- Read your provider's notes from your office visit

A great way to communicate.

Once you sign up for MyChart, many of your UR Medicine doctors' offices will begin to communicate with you through MyChart (e.g., appointment reminders and/or changes, test results, prescription refill requests and even health questionnaires). You will receive an email (to the email address you provided) when your doctor's office updates information in MyChart.

View your test results.

You can see most test results from your inpatient stays or emergency room visits at Strong Memorial, Highland and F.F. Thompson Hospitals, as well as tests completed by a UR Medicine lab. Most are available the morning after they are finalized; tests like pathology, imaging and pap smears are released to MyChart seven days after they are finalized. Sensitive test results such as genetic tests, drug screens, HIV and STD tests can be released to your MyChart if you ask your provider, or if your provider opts to manually release them.

Your information is safe with MyChart.

MyChart protects your personal information through a series of secure access codes, personal IDs and passwords. It also uses the most advanced encryption technology available, so that only you and your healthcare team can access your information. In addition, all MyChart payments are made through one of our nation's largest and trusted payment networks, and UR Medicine does not store your credit card information.

View a family member's health record.

You can view another person's MyChart with appropriate consents. This is called proxy access and allows you to log into your personal MyChart account, and then connect to another person's MyChart account. UR Medicine offers two types of proxy access:

- Full Proxy Access: A full proxy is able to see all items that appear in another person's MyChart. UR Medicine patients over age 18 can appoint any other adult as a full proxy. Parents and legal guardians of children under 12 can also request full proxy access.
- Limited Proxy Access: This option is available to parents and legal guardians for their children ages 12 to 17, and allows them to see their child's allergies, immunizations and letters. Full access to their child's MyChart is available, but requires their child's permission (per New York State law), and must be requested in-person at your child's doctor's office.

More information about proxy access is available at mychart.urmedicine.org, click on Access for Kids/Family.
