Five Steps to Integrating Tobacco Cessation Treatment Into an SUD Program* *Adapted from Fiore et al., 2009.

1. Ask Identify and document tobacco use status for every client during every visit to the treatment facility.
2. Advise In a clear, strong, and personalized manner, urge all clients who use tobacco to quit.
3. Assess Ask clients whether they are willing to make a quit attempt at this time.
4. Assist For clients who are willing to make a quit attempt, offer cessation medication (unless contraindicated) and provide counseling to help them quit.
5. Arrange For clients willing to make a quit attempt, arrange for follow-up contacts, beginning within the first week after the quit date.

Motivational Interviewing Tips

1. Clinician–client relationship is like a partnership rather than a teacher–student relationship.
2. Clinician highlights discrepancies between the client’s behavior and his or her goals.
3. Helps the client elicit reasons for change and thoughts about how change should happen.
4. Client resistance is a sign to change the strategy and listen more carefully to understand the client’s perspective and proceed from there.
5. To support self-efficacy, clinicians must convey belief in client’s ability to reach his/her goal.
6. The client is seen as a valuable resource in finding solutions to problems.
