

CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES

At the end of the conference, participants should be able to:

- Describe common oral health problems and implications for general health; discuss conventional and innovative approaches to nursing home oral care.
- Describe essential components of pain assessment; describe aspects of communicating pain to provider.
- Describe how quality focus of new MDS matches national quality goals; identify quality and care process implications of significant changes in MDS 3.0.
- Identify core principles, describe co-management, identify outcomes of the Geriatric Fracture Center.
- Describe clinical characteristics and risk factors of executive dysfunction; discuss approaches to evaluation and strategies to reduce risk for adverse outcomes in patients with executive dysfunction.
- Describe consequences of untreated hearing loss on an individual's quality of life; identify latest treatment technologies; describe role of providers in addressing hearing loss.

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

This conference will provide geriatric health professionals throughout the continuum of care with clinical and practical topics relevant to health practice with older adults. These topics were selected because they represent areas of need as identified by participants and faculty who provide health care to older adults. Some topics represent increasing clinical concerns in the geriatric population. Other topics represent areas that have important policy, cost and legal implications for health care providers and ultimately affect the way services are provided to older patients.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

This conference is for health care providers from all disciplines. These include physicians, physician assistants, medical directors, social workers, nurses, nurse practitioners, occupational therapists, physical therapists, nursing home administrators, dental professionals, audiologists, chiropractors, podiatrists, recreational therapists, health care students, faculty and any other professionals interested in the field of aging.
