CARE Track Resident Spotlight - Abigail Kroening, MD

Dr. Abigail Kroening, a current Pediatric Chief Resident, is collaborating with the Hall of Justice Children's Center at Family Court to connect families to the vast resources within our Rochester Community. In 2010, over 26,000 petitions were filed in Monroe County Family Court, affecting thousands of children. Many of these children are not receiving vital services, including optimal health, educational, nutritional, and developmental care. The CAREing in Court (CiC) Project, initiated as part of the Child Advocacy Resident Education (CARE) Track during Dr. Kroening's pediatric residency training, offers an opportunity to identify the diverse needs of the children and families in crisis who present to Family Court and provide them with on-site referrals and follow-up to customized services that will ultimately result in decreased family stress and overall health improvement. During its five-month pilot phase, the CAREing in Court Project was able to provide 116 families (149 children) with 217 referrals to previously unaccessed community resources. The CiC Project is funded through generous grant support by the Community Pediatrics Advisory Council (CPAC) and sustained through the tireless efforts of the staff at the Children's Center, Ms. Eileen Caldarelli-Whitney and Ms. Taryn Johnson, and Catherine Cerulli, J.D., PhD, our colleague at URMC Department of Psychiatry, all of whom are deeply invested in the well-being of the children cared for at Court.
