Introduction to Mindfulness Meditation: An Evidenced Based Practice for Reducing Stress

What: Mindfulness is a way of paying attention that emphasizes being awake to the present moment in a nonjudgmental way. Recent brain studies show that not only does the brain affect our experience (thoughts, feelings, behavior), but that our experience affects the brain. How we think, feel and act changes the chemistry and structure of the brain. Learning these practices reduces the impact of stress on our lives and helps prevent emotions from hijacking the brain. The talk will be presented by Peter Sullivan, LCSW and Wendy Sullivan, LMSW. St. Stephen’s Episcopal Church has been hosting weekly mindful meditation sessions for over 6 years. A separate session was added for children two years ago. This Fall, 8 week Mindfulness Based Stress Reduction Workshops will begin.

A CD of meditations for children and adults recorded by the presenters is available for a suggested donation of $20.

When: Thursday, October 6, 2011 6:30 – 8:00pm.

Where: St. Stephen’s Episcopal Church, 350 Chili Ave. Rochester, NY 14611

Every Shut Eye Ain’t Sleep

What: There are many dimensions to both understanding and addressing the persistent gap in educational outcomes associated with race, ethnicity, and class. Carol D. Lee argues the need for a holistic framework to inform responses to these persistent inequities, whether educational policy, teacher training, standards and assessment, or curricular interventions. Lee will articulate the framework and illustrate its implications for teaching in the disciplines, with a special focus on literacy, and conclude with a discussion of implications of this kind of instruction for teacher education.
